Experience

Daniel is a specialist extradition, immigration and public law practitioner. He appears regularly in the High Court, Magistrates' Court and Tribunals, representing domestic and foreign Government departments, requesting authorities and applicants. He advises pre-arrest and in import extradition cases, involving the full range of offences. He is experienced in Judicial Review challenges to decisions of public authorities, and Habeas Corpus and unlawful detention cases.

Daniel's recent instructions include representing the Government of Peru in their first extradition requests for serious drug smuggling charges. In 2016 he represented the Italian authorities in their request for the extradition of three men accused of being members of a terrorist cell linked to IS. He has advised and appeared on behalf of India, Brazil and Albania in the Magistrates' and High Court. and has represented UK government departments in challenges under the Freedom of Information Act and to the legality of detention.

In the immigration field, he has represented the Secretary of State in Judicial Review challenges to fresh claims decisions concerning risk on return to Turkey and Albania. He has also appeared in an appeal challenging the Secretary of State's decision to exclude a person from the refugee convention on the basis that they had committed war crimes which is currently before the Court of Appeal.

Awards

Daniel advised CPS Kent on post-extradition aspects of the high-profile case of Jeremy Forrest, a teacher who was extradited to the UK for abducting a pupil. Defence work includes advising on the UK's extradition relations with Japan, and representing a requested person accused of involvement in a multi-million Euro VAT fraud.

The Coronavirus Act 2020: What Extradition Practitioners Need to Know

27/03/2020

Barristers involved: Daniel Sternberg Kathryn Howarth Émilie Pottle Saoirse Townshend Benjamin Seifert
The Act makes substantial changes to the use of live links at extradition hearings.

A full briefing note has been prepared by Daniel Sternberg. It is available here.

On 12 March 2020 Lord Hodge, Lord Sales and Lord Hamblen granted permission to appeal to the Supreme Court in a case will deal with the viability of assurances which purport to guarantee compliance with Article 3 of the European Convention on Human Rights. Please see link.

On 18 February 2020 the Divisional Court referred the first and perhaps only UK extradition case to the Court of Justice of the European Union. Please see link.

Chambers is very pleased to welcome Kathryn Howarth, Emilie Pottle and Saoirse Townshend to the extradition team.

Kathryn Howarth specialises in public international law, extradition and public law. She is on the Attorney General's Public International Law Panel of Counsel and the Attorney General's Civil Panel of Counsel. She is instructed by UK and foreign government departments and individuals. Kathryn is described in the Legal 500 as combining "intellectual strength with an imperturbable, yet reassuring, court manner".

Émilie Pottle is an extradition, public and international law specialist. She is recommended in the directories across multiple practice areas and has appeared before the Supreme Court, Court of Appeal and Divisional Court. She represents UK and foreign government departments, individuals and NGOs.

Saoirse Townshend is described in Chambers & Partners 2020 as "A brilliant lawyer with a sharp mind and an unwavering determination to protect her clients." Saoirse has a dynamic court and advisory practice specialising in extradition and public law. Saoirse is instructed alone and is led in complex and novel points of law before the Supreme Court and the Divisional Court. Saoirse is ranked in both Legal 500 and Chambers and Partners.

Daniel Sternberg comments on obtaining evidence from Prince Andrew

28/01/2020

Barristers involved: Daniel Sternberg

The FBI are investigating whether Prince Andrew has any relevant evidence to their investigation into sex trafficking involving Jeffrey Epstein. At the same time, a number of civil claims have been made against Epstein and his estate.

Daniel Sternberg spoke to the BBC's legal correspondent, Clive Coleman, and discussed how the US civil and criminal investigations might seek to obtain evidence from Prince Andrew in the UK using Mutual Legal Assistance.
